Senior Class Legend

IN September, 1931, more than a hundred young Papooses took their first steps along the adventurous trail through the wigwams of their elder Choctaw brothers. From the first week of that month, the class of 1935 showed great promise of producing many warriors who would tread upon the war paths and bring honor to the Tribe. This promise has been fulfilled even beyond those first expectations. Those who were Papooses at that time have since become full-fledged Choctaws and have reached the end of the trail as such; but their memories of their friendships and experiences through these four years will remain indelible wherever they may go, and will accompany them to the Happy Hunting Grounds.

The president of the freshman class in 1931-32 was Zachary T. Hederman, who was later destined to lead the Choctaw student body in his senior year. Other officers were Fred Jackson, Ray Hunt, and Marlee Gordon. The spirit of the Papooses was ably guided by this group of class officers throughout both semesters.

The Papooses produced outstanding athletic teams during 1931-32. The football team won three victories in four starts, before they lost to the brilliant Minor eleven in the final game. This team had as members such players as Priester, Craft, Gordon, Peebles, Eddleman, Davis, Hunt and others who were to star on the varsity in later years.

During the winter months, the Baby Indians came forth with one of the strongest of all freshman basketball teams, trimming the rival Minors four straight times, three of the battles being decided by one point. Several junior college teams went down in defeat before this array of McPhearson, Lee, Eubanks, Kelly, Craft, Farrell, Drury, and others, who played important reserve roles. The Papoose baseball and track teams were also of a high standard in the spring of 1932.

The freshman class of that winter contributed fifteen men to the 155th Infantry Band and a dozen or so to the Choctaw Glee Club. These men have continued in the places they made for themselves in that year and are now leaders in all the musical organizations.

the basketball court, or cheering in the bleachers, in the class-rooms, or in the Band or Glee Club, in the B. S. U. Conferences, or in other campus organizations, or in just making life as comfortable as possible for their elder brothers, those blue and gold caps were to be seen on every side of the campus at all times, for they were worn throughout the nine months.

In the autumn of 1932, these peppy young men of a year ago "found" themselves. Now they were really Choc-taws, and could guide the destinies of another group of young Papooses, who learned early in their career to respect the wisdom and sagacity of the Class of 1935. Although many enjoyable events of the 1932-33 session can never be forgotten, this year is most often recalled as that in which the members of the class began to realize their responsibilities, began to take advantage of their opportunities, and first got their start toward being real factors in student life. Paul Duncan Davis was chosen president of the sophomore class, and made a versatile and very popular leader throughout the session.

The sophomores went on the war path with the football team, the basketball aggregation, and on the many spring sports teams. These warriors were important aides in all victories of that year and especially so in the gridiron contests with Chattanooga and Millsaps, and in the basketball games with Mississippi State and Millsaps, in which three wins were marked up in four starts over each net aggregation. The sophomores were the leading candidates on the athletic teams in the spring of 1933, and were important factors in supporting the new program of spring intramural sports, and in winning the trophy from the Major amateur athletes.

During the winter, the class passed through the vicissitudes of the flu epidemic, the snow-storm, and financial bankruptcy practically unscathed. The matrimonial bee buzzed around several of our classmates but most of them escaped without being stung, only to be stung harder than ever during the next two years.

The Class of 1935 had contributed many freshmen to the working staffs of the college publications, but now as sophomores these men began to play important roles in the publication and literary achievements of the "Collegian," the "Tribesman," and the "Toma-hawk." One of the most treasured possessions of our college career is a copy of the "Collegian" published in February, 1933, by the sophomore class. This paper was edited by Zach Hederman, aided by an excellent group of assistants and feature writers and was considered one of the best class editions in recent years.

The sophomores began to be important artists in the Band, Glee Club, and Jazz Orchestra. Joe Henry became business manager of the Band and a group of fine musicians and singers from our class performed notably throughout the year in all the musical organizations. While running over the memories of our achievements in this field, let us always pay tribute to that great choral and dance leader, Virgil "Newsite" Smith, who was always on hand at stunt nights and various celebrations with his Bands, Square Dances, and Newsite Follies.

In May of 1933, the sophomores put on their annual campus reception. All the flower of chivalry was in bloom again and many a maiden found the young Southern gentleman quite irresistible at this gay affair. Everyone had a lovely time, as, to put it in the vernacular, "we put on the dog."

With the second semester examinations, the halfway mark of the history of the class was reached. Members looked back over two years of college life with mingled emotions of pride and desire to better their achievements, and to reach their goals in life on the campus, and to make preparation toward reaching their life's goal when college days should be ended. But as a class, our spirit was one of fellowship and harmony as we planned to reach high achievements during the "second half," and as we planned for our personal lives and goals during our last two years of college.

After the summer vacation of 1933, about seventy members of the class returned to the campus in September to enact the important roles in all college activities during their junior year. At this point in our career, we were joined by some forty or fifty transfer students who entered in the junior class. These men joined in all the class and campus activities and several of them won campus honors during their two years here. When they joined us, we said "Welcome!" At the end of our careers, they are just as great friends to us as those with whom we worked throughout the four years.

The junior athletes were the mainstays of the athletic teams throughout the 1933-34 session and in all sports showed the promise of excellent playing which they have fulfilled as seniors in 1934-35. Football, basketball, and baseball teams depended upon the juniors for fully half their positions, and the members of the class of '35 won honor for themselves in every appearance on the gridiron, on the court, the turf, the track, and the diamond.

The juniors began to train themselves for the positions they would hold in their last year by working at such posts as assistant editors and business managers of the "Tribesman" and "Collegian," vice-presidents of musical organizations, and by holding important offices in other campus organizations, such as the B. S. U., the Dramatic Club, the Bar Association, and the Pre-Med Club.

Especially were the juniors and transfers active in the Literary Societies, the class of 1935 having the largest percentage of members of any class in those organizations. Nelson, Fagan, White and several other juniors were reliable members of the debating team for their last three years. Juniors played prominent roles in the Dramatic Club, and junior co-eds won much distinction in that organization. The class was well represented in the Ministerial Association, and our classmates did some valuable work in that field of our college training. Others training to be lawyers, doctors, and scientists, were highly valuable to their respective clubs. Randle, Paul Farr, and Downing headed the list of juniors in the then exclusive Music Club.

Hollis "Hot" Kelly was elected president of our class for 1933-34, and made a valuable leader in all phases of our college work. Alfred Habeeb, another junior, was head cheer leader for the session, and others gave faithful service from being assistant managers of athletic teams to being good waiters in the dining hall.

In January, 1934, the Choctaw war drums were muffled in salute to one of the bravest warriors ever to fight for his tribe. Tragedy stalked on our campus when James Monroe Lee, of the class of 1935, died in a Jackson hospital after a serious operation for blood-poisoning.

"Rainy" Lee had been a star end on the football team, and was a miracle man on the basketball court for three seasons. Always cheery and friendly, he was a true Choctaw, and though his passing saddened us more than words can tell, we are proud to have numbered such a man as one of our classmates.

Last September we members of the class of 1935 began the last year of our college careers. In addition to the usual deference and respect with which undergraduates regard the seniors, the men of our class, of course, filled the most responsible positions on the campus, and were leaders in every field.

Zachary T. Hederman was president of the student body, and Richard A. Eddleman was vice-president. Sam Peebles was student body attorney.

Zach Hederman, Charles Lewis,
 Robert Allen, Francis Coleman, Harry Craft, Marlee Gordon, and R. A.
 Eddleman filled responsible positions as officers on the Executive Council, Honor Council, and Median Council.

J. C. Downing, Jr., and F. E. Randle, Jr., were president and business manager, respectively, of the Mississippi College 155th Infantry Band, and led the organization through the summer encampment to a highly successful tour through the northern sections of the state.

Charles Gunter was elected president of the Glee Club after the failure of Paul Farr, another member of the class.
 to return for the last year of work here.
 He led the club in fine season in all its programs, operettas, and cantatas on the annual trip with the Hillman Glee Club through South Mississippi.

In the religious activities, seniors were very prominent. Charles Lewis, R. A. Eddleman, Carl Talbert, Brock Reynolds, Grady Wells, Robert Martin, John Cook, and Ray Koonce filled important posts on the Baptist Student Union Council as representatives of the various groups, such as Sunday School, B. Y. P. U., Noon-Day Prayer Meeting, and Ministerial Association. Robert Allen was president of the Ministerial Association during both semesters of 1934-35.

The Choctaw football team of 1934 saw a large number of seniors play their last game on Thanksgiving, and will miss them sorely when the next autumn rolls around. Harry Craft, Paul Davis, Marlee Gordon, Sam Peeples, Ray Hunt, Frank Yates, Adkins Baker, Gene May, Billy Priester, Bill Kyzar, Stanford Thigpen, and Hollis Kelly fought their hearts out all season as the team tackled that suicidal schedule of Badgers, Yellowjackets, Lynx, Wolves Maroons, Moccasins, Bulldogs, Wildcats, and the Majors. Many other seniors gave their best in the athletic encounters throughout the rest of the session, notably Hollis Kelly and Ralph Farrell in basketball.

Only at the end of the basketball season did the realization come that the senior year—the culmination of the many years of our early life of training now past—was swiftly drawing to a close. Then there appeared the TRIBESMAN, the record of it all, and with it, the long-awaited commencement. With a feeling of irrepressible regret most of us spent the last few days enjoying the cordial fellowship of fast friends that had pursued us for four years, realizing that never should we be assembled again under the same auspices, and wondering what might await us on the great world outside.

There is one outstanding reason why the memories of our careers at Mississippi College will always bring a warm feeling of sentiment to our hearts, and will thrill our souls with their challenge to greater things. As we look from those first September days back in 1931 on through the days and years up to that spring afternoon in 1935 when the setting sun shone through leaves of the trees in front of the historic old chapel building as we graduated, we shall always realize one truth above all others: We have been among friends.

A FRIEND HAS PASSED ON

DR. A. J. AVEN

The 1935 TRIBESMAN pauses here in reverence to pay tribute to a scholar, a teacher, and above all a Christian gentleman. Dr. Aven has been taken from us to a better world. He is gone never to be forgotten until Mississippi College ceases to send her graduates forth to the four corners of the earth. He was a veritable tradition with Mississippi College students and will remain such. The ones of us who thought a handclasp from Dr. Aven would complete our education must wait and strive until we reach the city four-square, where he waits for the products of his beloved college. The highest words of eulogy of which we can think is the simple statement, "That was a man."

THE CHOCTAW BRAVE TOOK GREAT PRIDE IN HIS PHYSICAL PROWESS. HE WAS A GREAT HUNTER, AND A ZEALOUS
CONTENDER IN ALL CONTESTS
OF MANLY EXERCISE. THE SPIRIT OF "FIGHT" FOR WHICH HE WAS FAMOUS IS COMPARABLE
ONLY TO THE PRESENT DAY
CHOCTAW SPIRIT OF FAIR PLAY.

ATHLETICS

The Men Behind the BLUE and GOLD

Coach Robinson rounds out his tenth year of service to Mississippi College this year. If we should select a coach for a Utopian college, one who knows his work, loves his men, knows how to "take it" as well as "give it" and most of all is a Christian gentleman, Coach "Robbie" would be our choice.

Coach Wilson graduated from Mississippi College in 1927, after finishing one of the most successful athletic careers in the history of Choctaw teams. He continues to reflect glory upon himself in his successful coaching for his Alma Mater.

The wearers of the coveted "M" in the Major Athletic sports have banded themselves together in one of the foremost organizations on our campus. Under the leadership of "Big Chief" Peeples, they have taken great strides toward the development of athletics both intramural and intercollegiate.

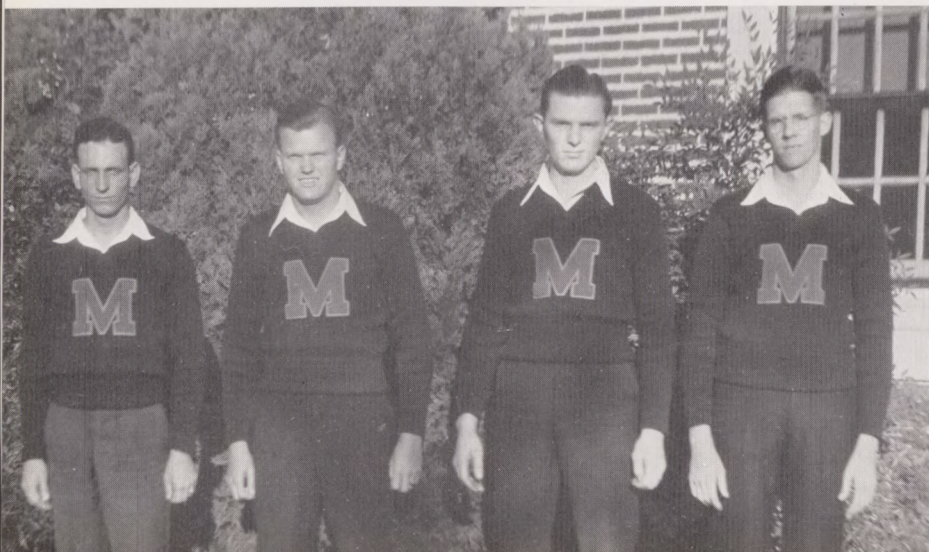

The Athletic Council

DR. WOOD, Chairman; ROBINSON, WILSON, LATIMER, HITT, HANSEN, EDDLEMAN, DAVIS, HEDERMAN.

The Athletic Council is selected from members of the faculty, the coaches, and representatives from the student body. It is, as the name implies, the governing board to guide and control all phases and policies of athletics. Unstinted praise should be rendered to these men who labor so unselfishly for the benefit of the students and the college as well. Mississippi College has been fortunate in its policy of combined faculty and student control and in the wise selection of the members who comprise the Council.

The Blue and Gold Warriors started the 1934 season with the most dismal prospects that any Indian group had faced in years, with only four lettermen returning to the fold. Yet, under the guidance of Coach Stanley Robinson, and by remaining true to that traditional Choctaw spirit that never dies, this group of untried warriors came through the season in fine style, winning five of their nine games, and making the best showings against Loyola and Mississippi State that have been made in the past four years or more.

The light little team began the season with a trip to Mobile, Alabama, where they engaged the heavy and much improved Springhill Badgers. The team fought through with sheer grit to take a well-earned 7 to 0 victory and justify the faith of its loyal followers.

Act No. 2 of the 1934 gridiron drama was staged on Provine Field, when the chesty bunch of State Teachers Yellowjackets were sent back to their Hattiesburg field on the short end of a 12 to 0 score. Despite these two wins, the Braves were not given much of a chance by the newspapers to win more than one of their remaining seven games.

But on the Saturday of the Fair the fighting Choctaws surprised their most ardent admirers with a brilliant 20 to 7 victory over the Southwestern Lynx from Memphis. Hawking the ball on every occasion, and hammering away at the Lynx goal throughout the game, the scrapping line came through for the third successive week to triumph over a much heavier team. Popeye Craft continued his dazzling open field running, and the whole team fought with what can only be described as that good old Choctaw spirit.

The following week found the Choctaws on their annual visit to New Orleans to oppose the mighty Wolfpack of Loyola. After the Red team had marched straight down the field to a touchdown to open the game, six thousand Crescent City fans sat in pained astonishment and watched the fierce attack of the Tribesmen led by James Hitt, push the gigantic men of Loyola all the way down the field for a touchdown. They cheered lustily as the fighting group of mustard-colored jerseys grimly fought back drive after drive of the Wolfpack and ended the third quarter with the score of 7 to 7. But the Loyola team, through superior weight and manpower, wore down the Clinton defense and finished the game on top by a score of 20 to 7.

The last week of October found the Choctaws at Scott Field in Starkville as they opposed the highly improved team of Mis-

Mississippi State. The game was bitterly fought from start to finish, and only lucky breaks gave the Maroons a 13 to 6 victory. It was a victory that they did not feel sure of until the game was over and they saw the results in the papers. The Choctaws were in there fighting with everything they had until the last second of play.

Homecoming Day furnished a battle in the mist and rain with the University of Chattanooga Moccasins at the Municipal Stadium in Jackson. Superior weight and line play enabled the Tennessee lads to down the Clinton clan by a 13 to 0 score.

The second week of November found the team and student body in Vicksburg to battle the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs. The team fought like the Choctaw teams of old. The defense was more than stubborn, the attack more than terrific. Vicksburg people felt genuinely sorry for any team that happened to oppose the Choctaws that day, for the game ended by a score of 32 to 0 for Mississippi College.

Once more the Choctaws hit the road, and once more they ran up against a team of superior weight in the line. At Pineville, Louisiana, the Choctaws engaged the Louisiana College Wildcats in a struggle that afforded Louisiana fans one of the best games in years. Long passes, blocked punts, 90-yard returns of kickoffs, for touchdowns, thrilling end runs, and desperate fighting in the line featured the contest which was stubbornly contested for the 60 minutes. Mississippi College supporters once more were justified in the faith they held in the team, as the game ended Mississippi College, 19, and Louisiana College, 13.

On Thanksgiving Day the final act of the 1934 season was presented to a crowd of 6,000 Jacksonians, in the Municipal Stadium. The Millsaps Majors drove to a touchdown to open the game, and got a lucky break to win another one and make the score 13 to 0. In the second half the Choctaws penetrated the Millsaps 30-yard line 12 times, and were inside the Major seven-yard line on 5 different occasions. They lost the ball on the Major 7-yard, 5-yard, 4-yard, 2-yard and 1-yard line. And they haven't scored yet.

That's football for you.

All honor and praise to Captains Paul Davis and Harry Craft, and to the host of regulars and scrubs who made possible the 1934 season. The Choctaw spirit lives on, both in victory and defeat.

CAPTAIN KELLY

BASKETBALL

LANE

Looking over the eighteen men who answered the call to the season's first basketball practice last December, Coach Lewis Wilson found that his problem was to build a team around a nucleus of three letter men. The prospects for a successful season were mediocre, although several good men had come up from last year's freshman squad and some promising junior college men.

Despite the fact that the prospects for the season seemed poor, Coach Wilson whipped a squad into shape that would have gone far had Lady Luck been willing to merely watch the game. But Luck took a hand in the game, and it was a heavy one as far as the Choctaws were concerned. From the very beginning of the season a series of unfortunate accidents came the way of the Choctaws. Attacks of influenza, bodily injuries and other misfortunes all befell the Tribe, until they finally culminated in the injury which resulted in "Red" Anderson losing sight of an eye and being forced out for the remainder of the season.

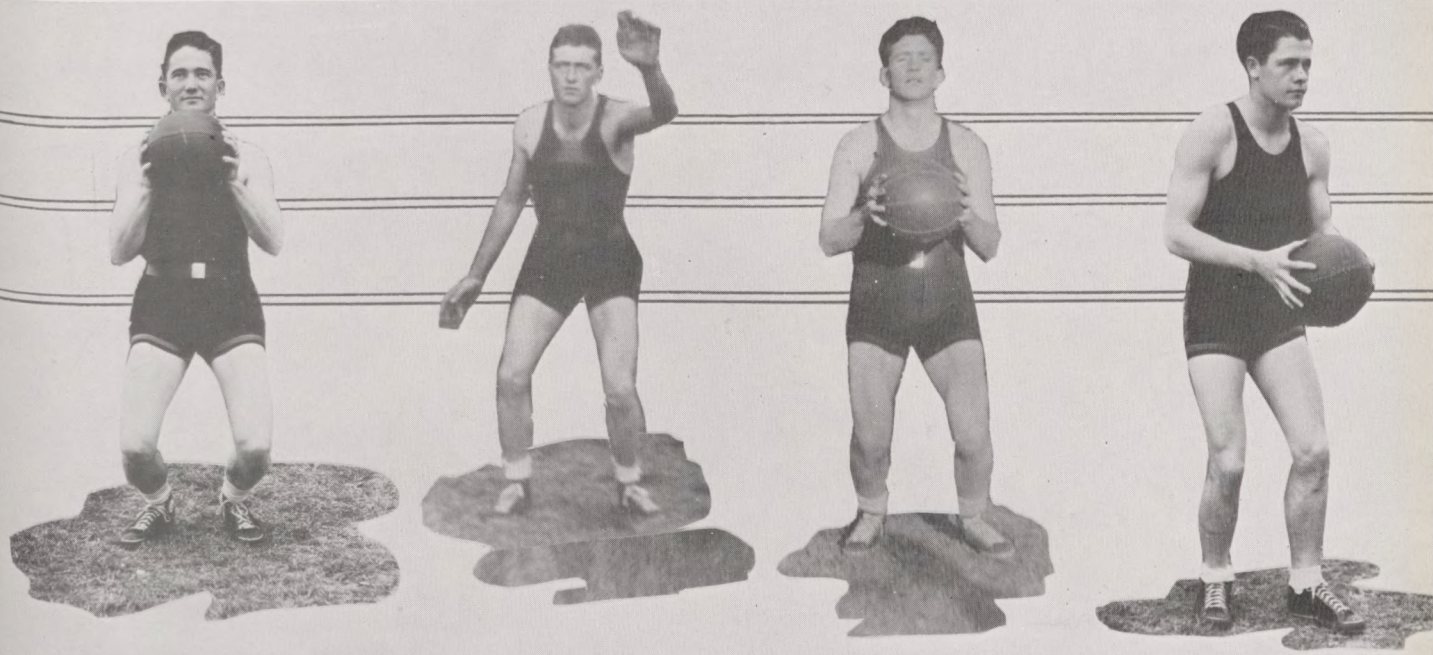

But regardless of hard luck, the Chocs were determined to give their opponents a run for their money. Opening the season with Louisiana Normal, the Choctaws eked out a 30-28 victory over the strong purple-clad team. Then when all the "dope" was favoring the Chocs, Lady Luck stepped in and kept several of the varsity men out of the game with Stetson University, thus handing the game to Stetson on a silver platter. But hard luck could not last forever and the Redskins came back to beat Birmingham-Southern by a decisive margin.

ON THE

The first two games in the annual series with Millsaps resulted in one-all score and the loss of Red Anderson from the squad. Then came the annual affair with the world's champion Celtics and its foregone conclusion.

Immediately after the completion of examinations the team left on a trip which carried them as far north as Kentucky. Out of seven games played on the trip the Choctaws won three, defeating Tennessee Tech, Southwestern of Memphis, and Mississippi State College. Perhaps the outstanding team the Chocs played on the trip was Western Kentucky Teachers, S. I. A. A. champions for 1934. Western defeated the Tribesmen by the score of 49-37.

Back on the home campus the team began its activities again by meeting Murray State College, after the cancellation of a previously scheduled game with Centenary. After losing this game, the Choctaws took on Mississippi State. Sickness forced several men out and as a result State went home with two victories chalked up for them, thus winning the four-game series three-to-one. The conclusion of the Millsaps series next occupied the Choctaws' attention, and by a final effort beat the Majors to make the final result a draw. Hope once again revived in the breasts of the Choctaw fans when the team defeated Southwestern, but the fans realized that the Chocs' luck had not changed when in the S. I. A. A. tournament drawings M. C. drew a "Bye" the first night only to have to face either Western Kentucky or Centenary the second night. On the second night of the tournament the Choctaws were eliminated by Western Kentucky to the tune of 46-18. It seemed that the only really bright spot in the season was the awarding of the Dixie Conference championship to the Choctaws after the failure to have a conference tournament.

The Papooses, under the leadership of Coach Homer Ritchie, had a more successful year than the varsity, playing nine games and winning the majority of them, including the series with the Millsaps Minors. The good material coming up from the freshman squad greatly enhances the chances of putting out a winning varsity next year. Freshmen winning numerals were Moore Windham, Pat Ryan, Eldon McPhearson, Arnold Hederman, Herman Newsome, Fred Green, Haskell Jackson, Jack Lawrence, and George Nichols and Paul Habeeb, Managers.

The Choctaw diamond artists came through a successful season last spring under the coaching of George Gill, of the 1932 class. During Coach Robinson's absence at the University of Michigan, the youthful coach handled his charges well, and exacted a brilliant brand of baseball from them throughout most of the season. Although a majority of the team was lost by graduation, a plentiful stock of reserves and sophomores was left on hand for 1935.

The season opened on April 7 with a double-header here with Mississippi State College. Dewey Myers' fine pitching plus the brilliant work of the Indian infield brought a 6-4 victory in the opener. The Maroons copped the nightcap by an 8-2 count.

Two exciting games were played with Millsaps the next week. The Majors won the opener in Jackson 3-2 in a thrilling contest that was a hurling duel between Assaf and Myers. The next afternoon on the home diamond Albert Drury held his foes well in hand and "Pop-eye" Craft socked the first ball pitched in the ninth inning for a home run that broke up the game at 6 to 5 and evened the series.

A brief trip to Starkville resulted in a 14-8 defeat at the hands of the Maroons. The fourth game of the annual series was rained out. The Braves returned to Clinton to engage Louisiana Tech's nine on April 20-21. The first game was a comedy of hits and errors, in which the Bulldogs emerged victorious by 17 to 7. The Choctaws struck the warpath for vengeance the next afternoon and humiliated the Techmen under an avalanche of hits and runs and two-hit pitching by Dewey Myers, who hurled a no-hit game after the first inning. The final score was 17 to 1.

On April 26 and 27 the Millsaps Majors were again met on the diamond. The Jackson game resulted in another victory for Assaf after another brilliant hurling duel with Myers. Godwin's home run broke up the game in the twelfth inning with a 4-3 score. At Clinton the next day the mighty bats of the Choctaws rang out a merry tune and scored the most decisive victory of the series by a count of 14 to 8. Home runs were slugged out by Craft, Hitt, Haley, and Bob Davis.

Three games were played with the Yellowjackets from State Teachers College the following week. At Clinton the locals won out by scores of 12 to 5 and 16 to 7. In the latter game a savage batting attack in the fourth inning overcame a 7-0 Teacher lead and marked up thirteen runs in one inning. The team traveled to Hattiesburg for a game on Friday and marked up their fourth straight win by a margin of 11 to 5.

The Choctaws met disaster in their final series with the Majors, whose batting attack was functioning perfectly. The Jackson game resulted in a 11 to 8 defeat and the finale of the season saw a crippled but fighting bunch of players go down by a count of 13 to 2.

The team wound up its season's record with eight victories and eight defeats as they traveled into Louisiana losing at Ruston to Louisiana Tech by 9-1 and defeating the Tallulah (La.) Independent aggregation by a count of 8 to 3.

Albert Drury, who performed in the left field and the pitcher's box during the season, was elected captain for 1935, succeeding Robert Davis, keystone man. Both Choctaws have their homes in Brookhaven.

Lettermen for the 1934 season are:

Captain Robert Davis, Brookhaven, 2nd base; captain-elect Albert Drury, Brookhaven, lf-p; Billy Priester, Brookhaven, c; Paul Davis, Jackson, 1b; John Haley, Farmhaven, ss; Otho Cross, Webb, 3b; Harry Craft, Heidelberg, cf; Bruce Hitt, Clinton, rf; Gene May, Newton, utl; Dewey Myers, New Hebron, p; Cully Magee, Jackson, team manager.

Craft, Drury, May, P. Davis, and Priester will be on hand to form the nucleus of the 1935 team. Reserves who will be back are Erman Littlejohn, Carmen Coney, Ray Hunt, and I. L. Toler, in addition to a group of promising freshmen.

Of a total of more than forty men who worked out during the training season, seventeen were awarded the "M" and eleven of the lettermen were lost to the squad through graduation. Rupert Ringold served as captain of the team. Zach Hederman was selected to lead the 1935 squad at the close of the season.

On April 14, the Braves fought a thrilling uphill fight to defeat Louisiana Tech and Millsaps in a triangular meet. The contest favored alternately the Clinton and Ruston teams, and the meet was not decided until the final seconds when the Choctaws' relay team of Simpson, Byrd, James, and Jackson gained first place for the all important points that meant victory. The final result was Mississippi College, 63 2-3; Louisiana Tech, 62 1-3; Millsaps, 9.

On April 28 in Jackson, the Choctaws swamped the Majors in their annual dual meet by a score of 84 to 34, gaining their second victory in two years.

Lettermen for the season were: John Goodwin Byrd, Mount Olive; Carey Cox, DeKalb; Monroe Reeves, Summit; Ronnie Simmons,

The freshman track team participated in the triangular meet and showed up in nice form as the final score was recorded in favor of the Tech Bullpups with 51 points. The Papooses counted 50 points and the Millsaps Minors, 24.

The Greatest Year

MISSISSIPPI College's 109th session has proved to be the greatest in the historic and glamorous annals of the great old institution. In athletics, a light but fighting football team acquitted itself valiantly, as did the quintet on the basketball floors. Scholarship has been well above par. The Literary Societies and clubs have risen to new heights of achievement. The Collegian, the Glee Club, and the 155th Infantry Band have never been better. Our debaters have carried off a lion's share of the victories in that field.

The 1935 TRIBESMAN is happy to have been able to share in this, our greatest year. We shall ever look back with fondest memory to this year and wish that our Alma Mater shall be each year more superlatively great than the last until she reaches the pinnacle of the Utopian college.

PREPARATION
PROPERLY BALANCED

MENTAL:—Faculty of unexcelled preparation in study and experience. Standards are widely recognized.

PHYSICAL:—One of the most complete programs of physical culture possible. Handsome gymnasium; full program of intra-mural contests.

SPIRITUAL:—A score of religious organizations meet weekly on the campus to promote the finest in Christian activity among our students.

SOCIAL:—Among our own student groups and in cooperation with the young ladies of Hillman College an ideal program of fine social contact is promoted.

FELLOWSHIP:—The Mississippi College family is one of happy friendship, sympathy, and mutual understanding. Students of Mississippi College are widely known for their fine democratic spirit.

An Endowed Senior College for Women

BLUE MOUNTAIN, MISSISSIPPI

A standard "A" grade college, holding membership in the Southern Association of Colleges and the Association of American Colleges.

Located in the high, healthful hill section of northeast Mississippi, seventy-five miles from Memphis, Tennessee. A beautiful campus and buildings in a picturesque setting.

Special advantages in piano, pipe organ, violin, voice culture, expression, art. Home economics and commercial subjects, such as bookkeeping, stenography, and secretarial studies, given without extra charge.

Cost to students surprisingly low. Write for catalogue and booklet of campus views.
